

A golf hole is a physical void in the earth that defines the objective of golf. The 18 4.25" diameter holes are surrounded by 74 acres of land (average golf course size). The holes are an interruption to nature. They have a defined depth of just a few inches, but still symbolize this idea of a physical hole. In Space Jam, Michael Jordan gets pulled into another world through a golf hole (symbolizes a portal). This hole could act as a metaphor for aiming where you want to go. Seems impossible, but over the course of 3 to 5 shots, can be achieved.
